EARWIG RECORDING ARTISTS

While searching our vast photo archives, we accidentally found this late-career photograph of 1950s blues musician H-Bomb Ferguson. We found it to be strangely intriguing. Did this photo represent H-Bomb reclining at home, listening to the dulcet sounds of his Casiotone; or was he in fact struggling to remove the bulky instrument from across his chest? Sadly, we may never know: H-Bomb Ferguson passed away this week at the age of 77. We dedicate this issue to his memory.

No shit: A guy wearing a bunny costume, and his dad, actually scored a handful of pop hits back in 1989. You really can sell anything.

We're willing to bet that this marks the first printed appearance of this photograph.

We get promotional materials from the various food boards all the time. (Thank you, pork board, for keeping us abreast of all the latest goings-on in the ham world!) But this one just seems odd—what are they getting at? We guess nothing says “Happy Holidays” like, uh, lobster.

Ah, the way we were. We found this expertly framed throwback to days of old whilst cleaning out our old offices a few years back. All in favor of restoring the old logo, say “aye!” Nobody? Really?
